

PROPHETIC INDICATIONS

A Publication of The Glorious Restoration

Coming Changes and the Shape of Things to Come

by Ken Purvis

The following year 2007 was similar to the previous year's travels but with different routes added. We crossed Death Valley and came to Tecopa Springs CA and checked into a resort famous for its therapeutic hot springs. The owner shared with me the following information about the uniqueness of the area:

- It is located in a county larger than the state of Indiana with apparently 98% being owned by the U.S. government.
- That particular area sits on top of a large volcano.
- This volcano apparently heats up a sea of black glass which creates the hot mineral water.
- The Amargosa River, nearly 200 miles long, also flows through the area above and beneath ground. It is regarded as the 2nd largest underground river in the United States.

In the early hours of that same day I was given this information, I also received a word which would radically change my way of thinking prophetically. It would also meet my resistance due to its content and how I perceived it would likely be judged. I later had to realize my own resistance to it was the real problem. I chose to keep it safely hidden away, sharing it with only a handful of people through the years. Sometime later, having moved to West Texas, I was awakened one morning as if directed to look at the time. The red digits on my clock read 7:27. Instantly I recognized it was to draw my attention to that very word I received on July 27, 2007. It was more clearly confirmed by what followed.

I will back up a moment to share this detail. During that 2007 trip my laptop began to malfunction so I purchased another model. The older one was still well within warranty, but I just set it aside. However, on this particular morning when I was awakened to the time and the significance of the date it brought to light, I got out the older computer to locate this same word. I was surprised I did not have a written copy of it. I went through all my files that contained recordings of words received during those two years of travel only to discover that every sound file had been corrupted . . . except that specific word. I inserted a memory device to download it and the very second it finished copying the computer completely crashed. Everything was lost on it. But now I had a copy of the word in question. At that very moment I recall saying, "This word must really be important." The Holy Spirit then said, "Send your computer in for repair." That was when I discovered the warranty was to lapse in just a few days. And to top that off I got more than expected; I was sent a newer upgraded model.

Now we come to the word itself which this whole story has been an introduction to. My previous reaction to it was, "This is not how Christians typically perceive the 'end times'." I also had problems with it, but not anymore. He has so patiently and graciously led me these many years on a journey of awakening until I would at last see its truth, having finally realized why these things must come about in order to awaken the SOUL of HUMANITY. Here at last is the word "COMING CHANGES."

"COMING CHANGES" Friday, July 27, 2007 . . . Tecopa, California

"Look far beyond the prairie and the mountain range, and you will see in a vast open space, in a time to come, that people will inhabit this land and fill this land from border to border and bring forth a new civilization, a new way of life, a new understanding on this earth. And it will be part of the redemption of the planet to free her from bondage and servitude to a calloused humanity. A new day arises in which understanding will prevail, a spirit of cooperativeness. A people will learn to exist side by side with appreciation and respect and govern themselves by what is best for all and not simply the individual.

The day will approach when this land will become active and fertile and very productive, and it will become very accessible. And it will teach many how to dwell on the land, how to receive of the produce of the land, and how to distribute with fairness and respect. Children will learn the way of the elders. Life will return to a simple treasure of meaning. Even a new language will come forth and be spoken, for it is all part of the redemption and the release of the era of darkness, falsely characterized as 'information and knowledge.' The day fast approaches. Turmoil and confusion and havoc shall reign for a season; and for a period destructive forces shall wastethemselves upon the land. Many shall lose their lives and be swept up in the flood. But it will bring a new sense of freedom, a new era of peace. And no more will they teach their children to war. Even through commerce they will not contend, nor bicker, nor seek destructive ways; but mutual understanding will prevail. And a new heart shall come forth upon this people and upon this land.

Your purpose is to speak forth these things and to announce their coming, and to mark the boundaries of the land, for you will set designated territories apart.

- Some will be marked for destruction.
- Some will be marked for redemption.
- Some will be marked for waste.
- And yet others will be marked for a new age of prosperity.

A new technology shall rise upon the face of the earth -- new understanding of this technology, in which the earth will be respected, even the heavens above will be joined together in understanding.

Communication with spirit beings and invisible forces will become common. People will learn a new manner of worship. It will not be uncivilized. It will not be characterized by darkness; but simplicity will govern the day. And new ideas and understanding will spring forth even from the minds of the simple. Even the children shall rise up and bring forth new inventions. But these inventions are not for selfish gain, but for sharing. And this is how the world will be governed, by the respect and the relationship all things are toward the benefit of the whole.

You will teach understanding to the people. And you will prepare them for the change that is coming, for it will be a great shock, like a time of explosive reactions. But those whose hearts are already being centered in the new awareness are sensing these vibrations. They are opening to receive these things; for it is they who bring a new era of prosperity

- through forgiveness,
- through cooperativeness and
- through mutual respect.

People will not be governed by laws from above, but by understanding. By teachableness they will learn to listen with respect and learn respect and teach respect.

The earth is about to be shifted on her axis. This radical shift shall be effected even from the heavens above. It shall be a shift of energy polarity. It shall cause many seeming freakish changes in weather patterns. It shall be as though the fountains of the deep open up. The earth shall go through a time of chaos, but it is as though in birth pains to be delivered. The pollution, the corruption, the violence shall all be lifted in a moment of total release. A cleansing process shall come forth.

Let your heart learn understanding and realize that your life is governed by higher principles, that (you) should be willing to distribute yourselves, to be available to those who are willing to bring in this change. Not all will receive it. That is why many will be swept away in the flood. It will be as a fiery destruction upon the face of the earth. Even the face of the earth shall be radically changed. It is a new era in geographical and geological changes and shifts taking place, and it shall happen so quickly when it erupts. While many may react in fear, necessary adjustments will be made, and old identities will be lost and new understanding will be acquired – a new identity, a new relationship. Tribal formations shall be brought about so people learn to exist together in new understanding. Not with a need to dominate, control or manipulate, but to survive through an era of peaceful cooperativeness and understanding.

Governments shall be brought low and dismissed. And their rulers shall even turn to the streets to beg for bread until they, too, repent of their destructive tendencies. For dark secrets shall be brought to light, corrupt practices shall be exposed. There will come a time of judgment. And many shall be sentenced to a time of service to humanity, by the emptying of their minds and hearts, their treasuries, and their resources. All things shall come to light and be exposed; but compassion and forgiveness will reign. And when the SHIFT is completed, a new era of scientific understanding will prevail. And spirituality shall not be dominated by greed, manipulation, and control, but by a peaceful set of laws by which each one is governed with the same respect and the same understanding. One shall not rule over another but understanding will prevail. And this will be the equalizing force. Even the most simple shall possess great understanding and no longer be dominated by ignorance or greed or fear.

Religions will fail. Mighty institutions, cathedrals, and caverns, dedicated to dark mysteries shall be uprooted. A simpler way of life shall prevail. But light shall govern the land, and understanding shall be consistent among all peoples. This will be what they share together as one. They will all know and flow together as one. Thus, shall the heavens be relieved of the great burden of this earth and her demands.

- And the universe shall prevail with peaceful accord,
- and the heavens shall be purged of this age of darkened reason.

Let your heart be willing to submit to the truth that is rising forth in this moment; because old ways, former theologies, ideologies, and philosophies, shall become meaningless. No more shall men argue their belief systems but seek understanding in councils of cooperativeness. For you see, men will learn to listen. Instead of speaking so much they will listen. Nor will there be libraries of great volumes of conflicting thought. Rather there will be contemplation, meditation, and communion.

- And this is how the world will be governed.
- Yet this is a period that will precede a greater yet to come.

Prepare your heart. For you are being called into the council of elders that shall teach you and instruct you of the ways of the land. Who will show you how to

- draw your resources from the heavens above, and
- tune your understanding into deeper principles of faith, of grace and love.

For humanity shall learn to serve rather than dominate. And the respect of all living things shall return. Even species lost and destroyed in past eras shall return to the face of the earth. And creation will learn to live in balance and harmony.

Prepare for what shall be. For it is an era of transition, a great shift about to take place. And remember this:

- The rule of government shall be lost.

- Armies will no longer possess their will, their resources, or their means to do violence; but rather to govern in peace.

Equality shall be the theme of the day. This is why forgiveness will prevail; because the light of understanding will be the treasure that all men will seek, which comes through mutual respect.

Your bodies will undergo many changes in this process; for you were told previously that your bodies would become communication centers by which these frequencies and vibrations would be transmitted and received.

- You will learn to sense,
- you will learn to hear,
- you will learn to feel even the vibrations of the shiftings of the earth.

You will recognize weather patterns beginning to change by what you feel in yourself. "As above so below." Open your heart to receive. Past learning shall have no future bearing. It is a new age of understanding.

(Ken & Sally Purvis/www.thegloriousrestoration.com)